

Miscellaneous publications, not listed elsewhere:

Reports published by the Commission for the European Communities:

Women in the European Social Dialogue: Strategies for Gender Democracy (1995) Social Europe, Supplement 4/95, 105 pages. Luxembourg: Office for Official Publications of the European Communities. In official EU languages.

Women in the Europeanizing of Industrial Relations: A Study in Five Member States (with Maria Carmen Alemany Gomez, Myriam Bergamaschi, Hildegard Maria Nickel, and Chantal Rogerat) (1994). V/664/94-EN. 150 pages approx. Brussels: European Commission. English.

Various reports for other bodies:

Education for Planning: The Development of Knowledge and Capability for Urban Governance. (1973) Report of a Working Group at the Centre for Environmental Studies, London, Vol 1, Part 1 of Progress in Planning, eds. D.Diamond and J.B.McLoughlin. Oxford: Pergamon Press (group authorship). ISBN 0 08 017179 6

An Inventory of Construction Statistics: The Opinion of the Private User. (1972) Her Majesty's Stationery Office. (Sole author.)

Special issues of journals edited:

Soundings: Journal of Politics and Culture, Issue No.13, 1999. 'Transversal Politics' (with Lynette Hunter).

Peace News, Guest editor of Issue 2443. June-August 2001 on 'Gender and militarism'. Editorial article: 'The gender dynamic'.

Photo-narratives:

'Different together: women in Belfast', Soundings: A Journal of Politics and Culture. Issue 2, Spring 1996.

'Refusing ethnic closure: a women's therapy centre in Bosnia-Herzegovina'. Soundings: A Journal of Politics and Culture. Issue 3, Summer 1996.

'Wrong and wrong again: women for peace in Israel' Soundings: A Journal of Politics and Culture. Issue 5, Spring 1997.

Photographic illustration to 'Living cities: making space for urban nature' by Sarah Whatmore and Steve Hinchcliffe, Soundings: A Journal of Politics and Culture. Issue 22, Winter 2002/3.

'Merry-go-round of death', Soundings: A Journal of Politics and Culture. Issue 26, Spring 2004.

'Death as everyday life', Soundings: A Journal of Politics and Culture. Issue 36, Summer 2007. Pp.164-180.

Main Institutional Publications:

Centre for Environmental Studies, London: CES-IP-2,3,13,14,15 and 21. (1970-74) (Papers on urban and regional planning research and education.)

Equal Opportunities Commission: 'Technology as a factor in occupational sex segregation', Research Bulletin, No.9, Spring 1985.

Centre for Local Economic Strategies: 'Ending occupational sex-segregation' in Men's Work, Women's Work, Report.

Lancashire Polytechnic: Women's Progress: Positive Action for Sex Equality in Lancashire Polytechnic, a Report with two Appendices. February 1988.

The Technical University, Lulea, Sweden: Forum's Future, A Report, April 1992.

Technology Assessment Unit, Technical University of Denmark: Gender and Technology: Mutual Shapings, Technology Assessment Texts No.6, 1992.

City University London, Women's Access to Europe: Report of a Seminar. An A4 Report. Distributed by the Trades Union Congress. 1994.

City University London, Getting Involved in Europe: the experience of 3 innovatory workshops for women trade unionists. An A4 Report. Distributed by the European Trade Union Confederation. 1995.

European Commission, 'Strategies for Gender Democracy: Women and the European Social Dialogue'. Social Europe, Supplement 4, 1995. A4: 105 pp.

City University London, Communication in Divided Societies: What Women Can Do. Report of an international and bi-communal seminar, Nicosia, Cyprus. British Council.

Pamphlets and booklets:

As Things Are: Women, Work and Family in S.London (1976), The Bonfire Press.

Women and Technology (1985) Studies for Trade Unionists, Volume 11, No.41. March.

Women, Trade Unions and Political Parties (1987), The Fabian Society Research Series No.349.

'Foreword' to F.Murray (1988) Cracking the Code: A Guide to Employee and Trade Union Intervention in the Development and Use of Office Computer Systems, Trade Union Research Centre.

Gender in the Aftermath of War: Women's Organization in Bosnia-Herzegovina (2000). Inaugural lecture, Ribbius Peletier Chair of Feminism, Emancipation and Humanism, University for Humanist Studies, Utrecht, Netherlands.

Articles in newspapers and non-academic journals:

'This culture of masculinity costs far too much to ignore', with Ann Oakley, The Guardian, Comment & Debate, 25 November 2011. Pp.46.

'Snagged on the Contradiction: NATO, Resolution 1325 and Feminist Responses', Women in Action (2012), published by Isis International, Philippines. Pp.48-57. Also online at <http://www.isiswomen.org/phocadownload/print/isispub/wia/wia2012/WIA2012_07TalkingPointsCynthiaCockBurn.pdf>. Accessed May 2013.

'Guerrilla Welfare', in Red Pepper, June/July, 2014. Pp.16-17.

Selected book reviews:

'Grief for men, grief from men', review of Selma Leydesdorff, Surviving the Bosnian Genocide: the Women of Srebrenica Speak, and Ann Jones, 'War is Not Over when it's Over: Women Speak Out from the Ruins of War'. Women's Review of Books, Vol.29, Issue 1, Jan-Feb 2012. Pp.9-10.

NB: This list of publications excludes many articles in non-academic print journals and newspapers, and most book reviews.

CC has been the subject of the following biographical profiles and interviews:

'Cynthia Cockburn', Beyond the Glass Ceiling: Forty Women Whose Ideas Shape the Modern World, Sian Griffiths (ed.), 1996. Manchester and New York: Manchester University Press.

'Cynthia Cockburn, une Universitaire hors du Commun', interview, Margaret Maruani et Chantal Rogerat. Travail, Genre et Sociétés, No.9, 2003. Paris: l'Harmattan.

'Interview: Cynthia Cockburn on women, equality and social science research;', by Gill Kirton, Queen Mary College, University of London, in Equal Opportunities International, Vol.25, No.2, 2006. ISBN 0261-0159.

A significant and approved source of autobiography:

CC was one of 50 women interviewed for The British Library's sound archive, 'Sisterhood and After: The Women's Liberation Oral History Project', 2012. Editor: Margaretta Jolly, University of Sussex.